Welcome to the Parish of DENMEAD

Denmead lies between Portsmouth and the South Downs in an area that was once part of the Forest of Bere hunting ground. Today the area is mainly mixed farmland although there are still areas of woodland remaining. The village has a wide range of facilities and the parish is well endowed with rights of way (path numbers are shown on the map) which can be used to create attractive circular walks. The paths are signposted from the roads and most are waymarked by coloured arrows (see key). We hope you enjoy exploring the area.
